Final Exams Week 101: How to Help Your Student

Although it may seem like your students just moved in, believe it or not finals begin in about four weeks! Final exams can feel overwhelming for first-year students as well as more experienced students. The Academic Resource Center (ARC) has been preparing and supporting students in the endeavors to do well on their final exams and papers. We want to prepare YOU to support too! Here are some tips that will help you discuss finals with your students.

Encourage your student to plan ahead. Using a to-do list or a calendar can help students visualize everything that they need to accomplish during finals week and begin to plan for how to get it all done. Having back-to-back finals is daunting, but it is possible to adequately prepare for this type of situation if students start studying well in advance. For help with this, students can meet with an Academic Specialist at the ARC to develop a finals study plan. Students can sign up for an appointment by calling 412-648-7920.

Encourage your student to limit distractions. Avoiding video games, social media, and other distractions can be a good way for your student to stay focused during finals week. These activities can serve as excellent self-rewards after a week of hard work!

Encourage your student to use self-testing. Self-testing early in the studying process can help students prioritize and decide how much time to spend on each topic. Self-testing throughout the study cycle can help students track their progress, and it reinforces the material they are reviewing and reading about. Self-testing can also build confidence because it will help students prove to themselves that they know the material. The material might seem easy to remember when they have their notes and textbooks to aid them, but the exam should not be the first time they try to answer questions about the material without using aids.

Encourage your student to stay positive! Finals are important, but it does not help for students to put undue pressure on themselves. Using positive self-talk is a simple strategy that can help prevent your students from talking themselves out of earning the good grades they’ve been working so hard for!

Visit ARC’s Web site for more information about tutoring, study skills workshops, and other resources that can help prepare for finals.

Campus Safety Update

By: Mary Koch Ruiz, Coordinator of Sexual Harassment and Assault Response and Education (SHARE)

The University of Pittsburgh has a comprehensive array of programs and services aimed at preventing sexual harassment and assault, as well as relationship violence, on campus.

In April, the White House Task Force to Protect Students from Sexual Assault issued its first report that offered a set of action steps and recommendations for colleges and universities to follow to address this issue (view the full report). Fortunately, the University of Pittsburgh already had in place many of the programs and services recommended in the White House report in place. However, to ensure that Pitt was doing everything possible to address this national issue, a Sexual Assault Task Force was convened on-campus this summer to recommend and implement improvements to our current programs and services.

The Pitt Sexual Assault Task Force made recommendations including:

• Changing the name of the Office of Sexual Assault Services to the Office of Sexual Harassment and Assault Response and Education (SHARE), to better reflect the mission of the office, which is both prevention of harassment and assault through education, and providing services for victims.
• Creating a new user-friendly Web site to provide comprehensive information about issues related to sexual assault and Title IX, and to clearly identify resources available, how to get help, how to report incidents, and more.
• Requiring all new incoming students to take an online sexual assault training module, HAVEN, prior to New Student Orientation, and requiring all new students to attend “The Tipping Point” program during orientation, which was a very direct presentation about alcohol use, sexual assault, bystander intervention, and campus safety in general.
• Implementing campus-wide awareness campaigns throughout the year to educate students, faculty, and staff on sexual assault, consent, and bystander intervention.

The SHARE Office conducted more intensive bystander intervention training programs during the first few weeks of school through the Let’s RAVE (Raise Awareness and Victim Empowerment) Peer Education Program.

Campus Safety — Students also were provided information on consent and risk reduction strategies to help them address conditions that facilitate violence. Pitt’s Student Government Board (SGB) passed a resolution at its Sept. 30 meeting to show its support of SHARE initiatives, and to help launch the awareness campaigns. SGB members took the “It’s on Us” pledge recommended by the White House Task Force at the public meeting and encouraged other students to do the same.

PantherWELL Peer Health Educators from Student Health Service and Let’s RAVE promoted the It’s On Us initiative at the HealthyU Fair in early October, and members of the Campus Women’s Organization (CWO) had a visible presence at the annual “I Love Pitt Day” celebration in mid-October, promoting the It’s On Us pledge, handing out promotional material, and starting the “10,000 chain strong” campaign. CWO also hosted its annual “Take Back the Night” event where the “It’s on Us” campaign was again featured.

SGB president Michael Nites, and Pitt Task Force chair Marian Vanek, have both participated in White House Task Force focus groups and conference calls, and a variety of programming will occur throughout the year to reinforce the messages by engaging students in interactive events.

If you suspect your son or daughter may have been sexually or physically victimized, encourage them to seek assistance through SHARE, which provides counseling, assists victims in obtaining medical care, and offers support in all aspects of the recovery process. SHARE is located in the Wellness Center on the second floor of Nordenberg Hall on University Place. The office phone number is 412-648-7930 between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m., and 412-648-7856 after business hours and weekends.

For additional information on SHARE and available services and resources, please visit HERE.

Helping You Help Your Student: Time Management Tips

Where does time go? Right? Many students pose that question as they near finals week. Papers are due, exams loom ahead and students want to spend time with friends before leaving for winter recess.

Help your student compartmentalize time management challenges with tips provided in this University Parent article.

Hey parents! Have you ever wondered what your student is doing on the weekends?!?! Well, we think about it all the time! This is how we determine what activities to promote for National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week, which took place on October 17 - 24, 2014. The Office of Health Education and Promotion hosted a number of interactive displays pertaining to a different alcohol-related topic each day: alcohol myths, apps and gadgets, alcohol emergencies, consequences beyond physical health, and sexual assault prevention. An obstacle course with “drunk-vision” goggles took place at William Pitt Union. Students were encouraged to participate in activities that were designed to be both brief and informational.

This week also acted as the launch for Pitt’s “It’s on Us” campaign. Students can sign the “It’s on Us” pledge to prevent sexual assaults on campus. After signing the pledge, the student will place a link on a paper-chain. The goal is to get 10,000 students to commit to an environment in which sexual assault is unacceptable and survivors are supported by Spring Break 2015.

To encourage students to think actively about their relationship with alcohol, peer educators will be wearing a life-sized Red Solo Cup costume on campus throughout the year. As part of HealthyU’s “Get Carded” campaign, students can pick up a Pitt Safety Card at HealthyU events. If a student presents their Pitt Safety Card to the Red Solo Cup, the student will have the chance to win prizes.

Dear Parents and Guardians –

We have had a tremendous semester! Our students have engaged in countless activities inside and outside the classroom, and we are quickly approaching final exams and the holiday break.

As you know, maintaining a healthy and safe campus is of the utmost importance to all of us, and I am writing to solicit your assistance in order to help your student stay strong and healthy during this time of year. As part of our ongoing efforts to help your student maintain good health, the University has kicked off a flu prevention campaign that offers practical advice on how to minimize the chances of getting the flu. Posters and electronic messages have been placed all around campus featuring reminders of some very simple things students can do to stay healthy.

One of the most important things your student can do is get a flu shot, and thus far, over 3,000 students have received free flu shots from our Student Health Service. Students can receive a free flu shot at the Wellness Center in Nordenberg Hall, and at additional “travelling flu shot clinics” around campus. Please encourage your student to take advantage of this service while supplies last, or encourage them to get a flu shot while they are home. Here is the upcoming flu shot schedule:

Fridays: Walk-In Flu Clinics @ Wellness Center, Nordenberg Hall
November 14: 10:00am-12:00pm
November 21: 10:00am-12:00pm

Tuesdays: Traveling Flu Clinics
November 11: 4:00-6:00pm; Towers Lobby
November 18: Scaife Hall Lobby

More flu shot dates could be added, so please check the Student Health Web site for updates.

Lastly, I want to address another health issue that has received a great deal of attention in recent weeks — that is the Ebola virus. Ebola has never been, nor is it now, present in the Pitt community. Despite that, we will continue to monitor the situation and follow all Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) guidelines to ensure the health of all members of our campus community. For further information about Ebola and travel, symptoms, and transmission, see here.

Once again, the health and safety of your student is a top priority, so please encourage them to follow the guidelines for avoiding the flu. And please know that in the event that they do contract the flu, our physicians and staff in Student Health Service are always available to help treat their symptoms or assist with any other health issue of concern.

Hail to Pitt!

Panther Leadership Summit

University of Pittsburgh students will once again have the opportunity to participate in Panther Leadership Summit. Hosted by the Division of Student Affairs and Pittsburgh Council of Higher Education, the Summit will offer Pitt students, along with students from other higher education institutions within Pennsylvania, a free, enriching day of leadership training.

The event will take place on Saturday, February 7, 2015 from 9 a.m. – 4 p.m. in the William Pitt Union.

The Summit will open with TED Talk–Style presentations from distinguished Pitt alumni and friends of the University. Students will then have the opportunity to network with alumni and learn about their professional journeys. Following the luncheon will be several workshops available for students to choose from, including one for each of the topics celebrated in the conference. Topics include: diversity in leadership, leadership identity, critical thinking skills, leadership theory and communication, and transferable skills for the workplace.

The Panther Leadership Summit provides students with a unique chance to hear about the personal experiences of inspirational speakers, as well as participate in hands-on, leadership-developing activities. These workshops will allow students to discover the different dimensions of leadership, including personal, organizational and civic/global leadership. By the end of the day, Panther Leadership Summit delegates will feel more confident with their ability to handle a multitude of situations, both as students and as rising young professionals.

Students can register for the Panther Leadership Summit HERE.

Pitt Make A Difference Day 2014

On Saturday, October 18, over 4,000 Pitt students gathered to participate in Pitt’s 7th annual Pitt Make a Difference Day (PMADD). PMADD is a citywide day of service during which students volunteer in order to give back to the entire community of Pittsburgh. This year, students completed service projects for 115 community partners by cleaning up local neighborhoods, assisting with preparing food at food banks, planting trees and gardens, and more acts of goodwill.

PMADD is an initiative that was started by Pitt’s Student Government Board in 2007 and is now run by Pitt’s new Office of PittServes, whose mission is to empower University of Pittsburgh students with the ability to make an impact on the Pittsburgh community. The students truly do “make a difference” on PMADD each year, as well as throughout the year. As one resident puts it, “The Pitt students were the greatest thing that’s ever happened to our community.”

Summer Sessions at Pitt

By: Pat McGrane, Communications Manager
Kenneth P. Dietrich Schol of Arts and Sciences

Even though the leaves are falling and temperatures are dropping, it is the perfect time to begin talking with your student about enrolling in summer classes. Take time over the Thanksgiving holiday and winter break to review where your student is academically. Is your student undecided about an academic major or specialized field of study? Does your student need to complete general education requirements or prerequisite courses? Would adding a second major, minor, or certificate complement your student’s academic experience and enhance professional opportunities?

Whether your student is completing his/her first term or getting closer to graduating, summer sessions in the Kenneth P. Dietrich School of Arts and Sciences provide exciting educational opportunities. Open to students across all majors and schools, summer classes are designed to help students reach their educational goals no matter where they are in the academic career.

Summer sessions allow students to catch up on needed credits, stay on track to graduate in four years, or get ahead of schedule. Students can complete core and prerequisite courses, enroll in popular courses and labs that fill quickly during the academic year, and discover new areas of interest.

Summer sessions also provide opportunities to explore subjects in a major without the pressure of a full class load. Students can choose between hundreds of courses offered during flexible 4-week, 6-week, and 12-week sessions without forgoing summer jobs, internships, or family vacations.

Summer sessions registration begins February 16, 2015. Students should speak with their advisor and visit HERE for specific course offerings.

Panther Funds

Power your student’s Panther Card! As your student finishes the semester, they may be running low on Dining Dollars or Meal Passes, but they can always supplement their meal plan with Panther Funds. Panther Funds can be added to your student’s Panther Card in any amount, and the since it is a prepaid, stored-value account, the Funds will never expire.

Panther Funds can be used across campus, including all University dining facilities, including QuickZone and Market Central. Panther Funds can also be used at over 40 off-campus merchants, such as restaurants, grocery stores, and convenience stores – and the merchant network grows larger every semester! In the past few months alone, we’ve added the following merchants to our Panther Funds program: Rite Aid, Noodles & Company, Rialto Pizza, Oak Hill Market, and Verizon Wireless, among others!

You can load Panther Funds to your student’s account a number of easy ways:
• Online, by clicking the “guest deposit” link
• By phone, by calling Panther Central at 412-648-1100
• By mail, by mailing a check to Panther Central at 3990 Fifth Avenue, Pittsburgh, PA 15213

Please have your students first and last name, as well as their “@pitt.edu” email address and/or PeopleSoft number when attempting to load Funds.

If you have any questions, please contact Panther Central at 412-648-1100 or pc@pc.pitt.edu.
Is your student having an outstanding experience living in the residence halls? Is your student looking for a unique living experience that extends their learning beyond the walls of the traditional classroom and supports their career goals? Then, your student should consider participating in one of our upper-class living learning communities (LLCs). LLCs are specialized living environments that help to connect students in and out of class learning. Students who choose to live in an LLC have a direct connection to their classroom experience, intentional events and programs, and dedicated staff members working to make the community a success.

To help students learn more about upper-class housing and LLCs, Residence Life and Panther Central will host a Housing Fair the first week of December and again in early January in the Litchfield Towers Lobby and the Sutherland Lobby. Staff will be present to answer questions about applying to upper-class housing and about the upper-class LLCs. Additionally, an LLC Open House will be held in January to allow students to tour the upper-class halls and to interact with representatives from each upper-class LLCs.

Upper-class living learning communities available for the 2015-2016 academic year include:

- Engineering
- Health Sciences
- Honors
- Leadership
- Multicultural
- ROTC

Have your student watch his/her Pitt email and follow Panther Central (@PantherCentral) and Residence Life (@PittResLife) to get more details about the Housing Fair and Open House.

For detailed information about the LLCs or for information about the application process, please go online.

Did Ya Know? Book Scholarship

Books are Expensive (we KNOW that you know that!). The Pitt Program Council offers a book scholarship each semester as funds are available. Applications are available NOW in M-30 of the William Pitt Union. Completed application is due by 5 p.m. on Thursday, November 13.
The William Pitt Union gets SOULful!

By: Alexandra Chornick, Assistant Manager, William Pitt Union

One of the University of Pittsburgh’s student unions, the William Pitt Union, recently completed major renovations to the 3rd floor. The “Mind, Body, and Soul Floor” houses all amenities to enhance the student experience mentally, physically, and spiritually. Before the project began, students were very open about their increased need on campus for more comfortable study space, an accessible gym for residents on lower campus, and a non-denominational area to pray or meditate. From additional electrical outlets in the quiet study lounge and collaborative study lounge to ablution station in the restrooms, the “Mind, Body, and Soul Floor” truly hits on some of the most important needs of our students.

The Stress Free Zone, an extension of the Counseling Center, is a space where students can learn and regularly practice research-based, mind/body stress reduction skills. This room provides mindfulness audio stations, private space for meditation and yoga, biofeedback programs, and a massage chair to help our students manage stress. Next to the stress free zone is a Fitness Center that has treadmills, ellipticals, an aerobic dance studio with floor-length mirrors, and a spinning room. Intramurals and Recreation oversee the fitness center operations, including classes in the dance studio and spinning room. At the opposite end of the hallway is the Reflection Room, the most tranquil room on campus, which provides plenty of open space for reflection, meditation, and prayer. The students are elated with the finished product and often mention that this is their new favorite floor of the building.

We would love for you to check-out the “Mind, Body, and Soul Floor” during your next campus visit & let us know what you think!

Technology Products and Services for your Students!

By: Debra Fyock, Director of Retail Sales, University Store on Fifth

At the University Store on Fifth, we recognize the importance of technology as a tool that students will frequently utilize while attending Pitt. For this reason, we offer a wide variety of technology services and products to our University community.

Apple and Dell computers/tablets are available with academic discounts ranging from $50 to $100. Additionally, throughout the year both vendors offer extra discounts and promotions available only to college stores. Students who purchase their computer at the “UStore” are eligible for a free data transfer—a service that represents an additional $150 value. We can also special order and configure a computer to conform to the needs of a student’s particular department or discipline.

To optimize computer use while at Pitt (and beyond), your student can schedule appointments to work with our T3 Apple Certified Trainer and Dell Tech Direct expert David Sanchez. We also hold weekly Wednesday lunch sessions and “Appy Hours” featuring technology topics for anyone who is interested.

Students who are having computer problems can bring their device to Technology Services, a division of CSSD located within our store, for assessment. A Dell or Apple computer which is determined to have a hardware issue, regardless of where purchased is referred to the UStore’s Apple/Dell certified service technician for repair. Academic discounts are available, when applicable, for this service as well.

We encourage students and parents to visit us to learn more about all of our technology services—including our “Espresso Book Machine” and 3-D printer!

Questions about this or other University Store technology questions should be directed to David Sanchez at dsanchez@bc.pitt.edu.

OCC Completion

This semester the deadline to complete the Outside the Classroom Curriculum is Tuesday, December 2. The Outside the Classroom Curriculum program provides a pathway for students to have the best possible collegiate experience by engaging in programs and activities designed to educate the whole student. These experiences will help your student gain the skills needed to be prepared for the job market and/or graduate school.

The OCC Honorary Society Induction Ceremony will be held on Friday, December 5 in the William Pitt Union at 7 p.m. The OCC Honorary Society recognizes students for taking the initiative to fully engage in and complete the OCC.

Shadow in Your City: a unique job shadow experience over Winter Break for Pitt students in Washington D.C., Philadelphia, PA, and New York, NY

The Office of Career Development and Placement Assistance offers Shadow in Your City, a component of the Panther Shadow Program, in which students visit a specific employer at their headquarters. It was designed to provide groups of students with exposure and knowledge of a company or organization that they are interested in pursuing.

Upcoming visits occur over Winter Break. Travel and lodging are not provided. Limited spaces are available. Please contact Sharon Mickens with interest and questions.
